

MHC6302 : Public Health Organization and Management

This course examines the assessment and understanding of the health status of populations, determinates of health and illness, and health risks and behaviors in diverse populations. It also reviews federal and state emergency management procedures and services with lessons learned from recent national and foreign disasters.

Credits 4.0

Prerequisites

None

Corequisites

None