

NSG6330 : Practicum II Adult and Gerontology: Reproductive Health

In this course, required for the Adult-Gerontology Primary Care Nurse Practitioner program, the student learns how to manage the primary gender health care of patients from adolescence into adulthood. Focus is on health promotion, disease prevention, and the clinical management and referral of common, recurring health problems of reproductive health. The student identifies normal physiologic alterations associated with reproductive health, which are addressed with emphasis on health promotion behaviors. This is an experience for continuing level Adult Gerontology Nurse Practitioner students. A minimum grade of B is required to successfully complete this course. Learners must successfully complete all aspects of the practicum, or they must repeat all components of the course.
