

PAS5126 : Medical Anatomy and Physiology II

Medical anatomy and physiology is the foundation of providing medical care to patients as a physician assistant. Students continue correlating anatomic and physiologic variations across the lifespan from fetal development to geriatrics.

Credits 4.0

Prerequisites

Successful completion of coursework in preceding academic quarter

Corequisites

PAS5226 Medical Anatomy and Physiology II Lab