

PHE5005 : Introduction to Health Services and Research

This course examines the organization, delivery, and financing of the U.S. Healthcare system. Students will also explore healthcare systems of select countries and compare them to the system found within the United States. Utilizing health services research, students will identify principles for application in various public health settings.

Credits 4.0

Prerequisites

PHE5001: Social and Behavioral Aspects of Public Health

Corequisites

None