

CNS6425 : Clinical Mental Health Counseling

This course will provide an introduction to the field of clinical mental health counseling according to clinical and professional issues. Specifically, students will examine treatment delivery systems and gain an understanding of the dynamic interplay of professionals within these systems. The course will also focus on program analysis via theory and empirical methods.

Credits 4.0

Prerequisites

None

Corequisites

None

Notes

Quarter 3 or Quarter 5 or Approval of the Program Director